Avalon works with survivors is to increase their ability to stay safe in the future and heal from the effects of violence. Avalon welcomes women and men in all stages of the survival process. Counseling for survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking, both past and present, is offered.

Counselors work with clients to:

- Heal from past traumas
- Work towards a safe and self-sufficient future
- Provide a safe space to share experience, strength, and perspective with other survivors
- Help with resources for those who want to help survivors in their lives

All counseling services through Avalon are provided at no cost. For more information or make an appointment, call the Outreach Office at 757-258-5022 and ask for a counselor.

A support group for survivors of domestic violence is also offered.
