The Alliance for Retired Americans is an advocate for older and retired Americans on critical legislative and policy issues, such as long-term care. The need for long-term care affects nearly all families, and it is a service mostly used by older people. The Alliance supports a social insurance model for a long-term care system and believes all Americans should be protected from the risk of long-term care needs.

Health Reform, Medicare, Social Security, nursing homes and long term care are a few of the issues currently in the media.
