

Published on SeniorNavigator (<https://seniornavigator.org>)

How Relative/Kin Caregivers Can Access Services and Advocate for Native Children in Their Care

The National Indian Child Welfare Association (NICWA) created this resource as a tip sheet for service providers to share with relatives/kin caring for Native children. It provides guidance to help caregivers access services, utilize them effectively, and advocate for Native children in their care.

This tip sheet uses “relative/kin caregiver” and “relative child” to refer to adults and children respectively, who are connected to each other by kinship bonds, whether extended family members or close friends. Throughout the tip sheet, “child” and “children” refer to Native children under the care of a relative/kin caregiver.

> Download this Tip Sheet from the Grandfamilies & Kinship Support Network.

The Grandfamilies & Kinship Support Network: A National Technical Assistance Center (Network) helps government agencies and nonprofits in states, tribes, and territories work across jurisdictional and systemic boundaries to improve supports and services for families in which grandparents, other relatives, or close family friends are raising children whose parents are unable to do so. For more information, please visit www.GKSNetwork.org.

Article Source

Generations United

Source URL

<https://www.gksnetwork.org>

Last Reviewed

Tuesday, October 15, 2024